Themes of the Conference

The conference will address the following themes, and participants are encouraged to present within these areas:

1. Myco-diversity, Taxonomy, Systematics and Myco-tourism
2. Prospects of Fungal Conservation and Regulatory Framework
3. Clinical and Medical Mycology
4. Host-parasite Interaction and Biology of Fungal Endophytes
5. Fungal Molecules and Enzymes for Diverse Applications
6. Prospects of Cultivation of Edible and Medicinal Mushrooms
7. Fungal Biomass, Bioenergy and Sustainable Uses
8. Bioinformatics and Molecular Approaches in Mycology
9. Interdisciplinary Perspectives of Fungal Biology
10. Prospects of Fungal 'Omics'
11. Fungi in Agriculture
12. Fungi in Industry
13. Fungi in Nanotechnology
14. Lichenology
15. Interdisciplinary (poster presentation only)

ASSOCIATION OF FUNGAL BIOLOGISTS [AFB]

Association of Fungal Biologists is a scientific body constituted with a broad interest in the advancement of mycology and caters to the needs of mycologists worldwide. The Association was formed with a view of bringing together the mycologists with the broad objectives of promoting and disseminating knowledge on different facets of mycology from a wide perspective. The major emphasis has been laid on the application of mycology to harness the biotechnological potential of micro fungi and macro fungi for human welfare. There are over 290 members including professionals, researchers, budding mycologists and students with varied interests and capabilities in fungal taxonomy, phylogeny, ecology, pathology, physiology, genetics, molecular biology, forestry, biotechnology, and other allied fields. The Association is not only restricted to the Indian subcontinent, but also extends an invitation to international mycologists to join it for furtherance.
